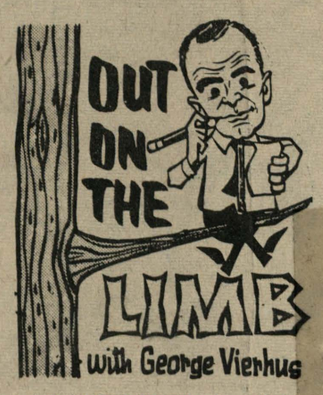
Vol. 75 No. 9 Wednesday, March 1, 1967



LAST WEEK in this column we touched on the ticklish tuition topic that seems to have many people in the state, young and old, worked up to quite an extent. We suggested that the fuss over whether tuition should be charged at the state colleges and universities had been overemphasized.

Our point was that the initial payment at the registrar's window generally was not as hard to come by as was the tab for the cost of living for the rest of the semester.

Needless to say there are many who disagree with us.

In all fairness it should be reported that a recent news item in the University of California "clip sheet" entitled "UC Student 'Ride' Is Far From Free" made a case for the other side of the coin.

It was based on a UC staff study on tuition that had been presented to the Regents.

ACCORDING TO the survey, far more students from poorer California families are going to the university than to the state's private colleges and universities. A majority of the students work to help pay for their educations.

The study was in answer to criticisms that UC students were getting "free rides".

It indicated that costs at UC already place it out of reach for many young Californians who may have the ability but not the money.

But the survey also "concluded" one obvious point which somehow didn't seem so startlingly new to us. We doubt that a survey was needed to uncover it. We had pointed it out without benefit of anything but personal experience.

We quote: "Money remains a major hurdle after enrollment. Repeated surveys have shown that the main reason for student drop outs is lack of funds, the study points out."

So what else is new?

NOW, WE HAVE NO QUARREL with the premise that money seems to be the root of all the fuss. In fact that seems to be quite obvious to all concerned.

The governor apparently is concerned over the same green stuff that seems to be bothering the anti-tuition people.

Reagan wistfully thought that maybe the college students could sort of help things out a wee bit by paying something more toward their "free education". It really didn't sound too vicious.

By the vociferous reaction one would have thought a Berlin wall had been thrown up over night.

It seems to us that those who are yelling the loudest, however, have somehow lost their perspective.

They seem to be putting an awfully small price tag on the value of a college education.

Next Monday night

Planners to act on drive-in theater

Although the cast of characters is familiar and the "show", with its many ramifications, is familiar in these parts, the curtain next Monday night at the Planning Commission meeting will lift on a brand new "drama" in the "Case of Winchester Drive-In".

This premiere will get top billing at the commission meeting, for aside from four routine applications for approval of signs and building plans, the three public hearings on the requests of the Syufy Enterprises for official city action are expected to dominate the evening.

TRUCE SETTLEMENT

After more than a year of protests from the City of Campbell against the drive-in theater located in county territory (off Union Ave. and McGlincey) but adjacent to the Campbell city limits, the action next Monday is the first step in the truce settlement that has been unofficially hammered out by council members, their counsel and representatives of the theater.

Basically the Syufy Enterprises have requested that their properties be annexed to the City of Campbell. At the present time, only the access roads are under Campbell's jurisdiction. But the court has ruled that these accesses are part of the overall theater operation. And Campbell's zoning of that particular area does not allow drive-in theaters.

But while the annexation proceedings are going on, the theater owners have asked that Campbell take the necessary legal steps to make a drive-in theater permissable in M-1-S zoning.

One of the issues then next Monday involves a request by the theater people to change the zoning ordinance to allow drive-ins in M-1-S zones with a use permit. The other requests are for use permits for the use of the EXCLUSIVE CLUB--Joseph Giorgianni (left) and Thomas Hale recently became members of one of the most exclusive organizations in the community, the "Campbell Press Century Club."

They qualified for membership by obtaining 100 or more new subscribers to The Press in one year. As club members each was awarded a blue jacket bearing the club emblem.

All The Press carriers are now embarked on a new circulation drive in which valuable prizes will be awarded. Some of the carriers also have high hopes, as a result of the drive to qualify for membership in this community's "most exclusive" club.

Rotary Club project

Trees to go on Campbell Ave.

Campbell Rotary Club received approval of the City Council Monday night to supply and plant trees in redwood planter tubs along both sides of Campbell Ave. from Harrison to First or from First to Second.

In a letter to the council from John E. Allen, chairman of the club's community service project, it was explained that this would be the club's project for the year.

According to the letter, a total of 28 trees would be planted this year with the possibility that the entire Campbell Ave. would be completed the following year. The city, with the hoped for cooperation of property owners on Campbell Ave., would maintain the trees.

Al Smith, Rotary president, and Norman Scott, secretary, were present to further explain the program.

In another action, the council directed staff to have the two parcels of property on both sides of the street at Alice and Winchester appraised. Another motion to negotiate the purchase resulted in a 2-2 deadlock.

The action of the council was a direct result of the problems arising from the request of Ken Norton to have a used car lot at Alice and Winchester. It was approved by the Planning Commission but denied by the council after Alice Ave. residents protested such a development.

Bill Wren, city engineer, explained that some action was needed before the city could move ahead with the widening of Winchester. One of the problems is that almost one-third of Norton's property will be needed for widening purposes.

On school district appeal

Council deadlocks over hardware building issue

Absence of one councilman (Ed Rogers is on a five-week trip to Latin America) on Monday night forced the City Council into a voting stalemate on the question of whether the Campbell Union High School District should be allowed to use the former Nelson Bros. hardware store building at 275 E. Campbell Ave. for offices despite the opposition of the fire department.

The question will come to bat again on Monday, March 13, when it is expected that Councilman Rogers will be back in his seat and break the ballot deadlock. At Monday's meeting Mayor Ralph Doetsch and Councilman Charlie Rose favored overruling the fire department with Councilmen Bill Smeed and Homer Hyde opposing such action.

The school district, which had been granted a use permit by the Planning Commission for the use of the building, had appealed the decision of the fire department that specified that the building was a fire hazard and unsafe to use.

GAVEL EXCHANGE

Because of the even split among the councilmen, Mayor Doetsch had to hand the gavel to Councilman Smeed in order to second Rose's motion to approve the use.

After the first deadlock, Rose then moved for continuation to the March 13 meeting. Again the gavel exchange was necessary to get a second.

But Smeed voted for the motion first specifying that he still opposed the use. Hyde cast the lone negative vote.

The vote on the question came after almost an hour and a half of discussion on the issue. Larry Hill, school district superintendent, and Don Russell, assistant superintendent, aided by Milt and Clarence Nelson, owners of the property, presented the district's side of the question.

"Classy Chassy"

Beer bar billiards concerns council

Customers who will visit the "Classy Chassey", a beer bar that is planned for 1665 S. Bascom, will have only one (instead of two as requested) coin-operated billiard tables to pass the time away as a result of City Council action Monday night.

On the other hand, other attractions planned just possibly could make up for this deficiency in billiard tables, the council learned.

Abraham T. Cohen, of Modern Seating Co., the owners of the tavern, had requested two tables. He was present at the meeting to fill in details of the proposed operation that may not have been covered by a report filed with the council by Police Chief John Morgan who had researched the subject.

The police chief had suggested that two billiard tables could possibly make the place too congested. He indicated that he would like to take another look after the place was in operation.

A motion to approve the one table concept was adopted by a 3-1 vote (Councilman Charlie Rose dissenting) after a first motion by Councilman Bill Smeed to approve two tables couldn't get a second. Councilman Homer Hyde said he preferred allowing one table now, then taking a look later.

Before the vote, the councilmen were enlightened by Chief Morgan's report and Cohen's statements about what was planned, in addition, to the billiards at "Classy Chassy". Cohen also exhibited a building plan for the council's perusal.

Beer will be served by female bar tenders, but not of topless variety, the chief reported. The bar tenders also will double as professional dancers on raised platforms behind the bar. Music will be from the juke box. But there will be no public dancing.

As a pertinent supplement to the case, Chief Morgan added that a similar operation in Sunnyvale is called the "Body Shop". However, there the gal bar tenders don't dance.

In other actions, along similar lines, the council approved coin operated billiard tables in Court's Tavern and Tony's Busy Bee and a machine at San Tomas Coffee Shop. (Councilman Rose dissented on all approvals because no policy had been established.)

In a final action, the council then directed the staff to study the possibility of putting a limitation on the number of bars, billiard parlors and similar operations within the city limits.

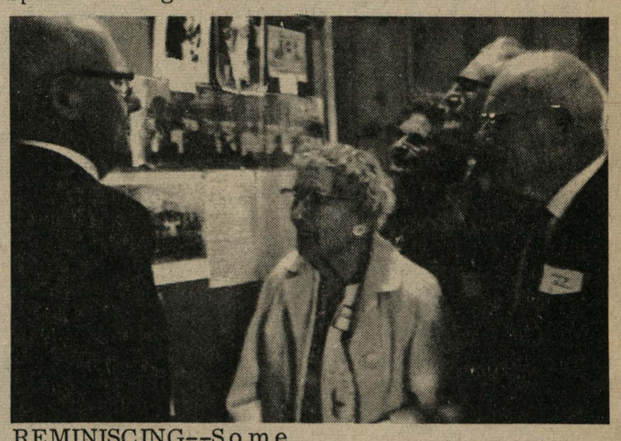
The annual Early Settlers luncheon hosted by Orchard City Grange on Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22, was attended by a capacity crowd of 175 persons. Ebb Bohn, Grange lecturer, reports the affair was one of the most successful events ever staged for Campbell old-timers.

Werner Raab, Worthy Master, acted as host and master of ceremonies. Entertainment was provided by accordionist Tommy Hudson of Cupertino. The tables were attractively decorated with miniature log cabins, depicting scenes from Campbell's past. The decorations were the handiwork of Mesdames Zelia Martin and Sadie Proctor.

Prizes were awarded to the two oldest early settlers present, Mrs. Gertrude Stanford and Harry Mitchell. Awards were also given to A.B. Campbell and family, of Calistoga, who came the farthest distance and to Mrs. Ettamae Eddlemon, 3 Garrison Way, who has lived the longest in Campbell.

The afternoon was spent visiting with old friends, and everyone concluded the luncheon was most enjoyable. Mrs. Carol Bartholmew was chairman of the luncheon. Her assistants included Mesdames Marian Landers and Barbara Carter.



REMINISCING--Some of the "old-timers" who were in attendance at the "Old Settlers" luncheon of the Orchard City Grange gather around the bulletin board where pictures and other displays from the past were exhibited. This particular group included Wayne Sanders, Harry Barnes, Mrs. Edna Smith, Mrs. Mable Doran, Mrs. Anna Bachman and A.B. Campbell.

Editorial

Citizens speak out

At the recent Congress for Community Progress, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, with the enthusiastic endorsement by the City of Campbell, more than 200 interested citizens participated in the panel discussions on seven vital topics affecting this community.

At the close of the Congress, each panel, through its moderator, submitted a list of recommendations based on the discussions that had taken place in the two-hour give-and-take sessions that were held.

The recommendations were then approved by the general assembly.

Some of the recommendations, naturally, because of the subject, were rather general in scope but others were definitely specific.

This month civic leaders involved in Campbell's first Congress will meet to analyze and appraise the recommendations with the objective of putting them into operation wherever possible and feasible.

Last week The Press summarized the recommendations made by four of the panels: "Traffic and Transportation"; "Youth Opportunity"; "Industrial-Commercial Development", and "Campbell's Improved Image".

Following are the summaries of the recommendations made by the three other panels, "Health and Welfare"; "Education", and "Local Governmental Services".

HEALTH AND WELFARE

1. That the Chamber of Commerce have available all necessary information concerning the various health and welfare agencies in the Campbell and central Santa Clara County area. Such material should include the Community Council Directory of Agencies, both private and public, serving health and welfare.

2. A committee of citizens and experts should be established to study the health and welfare needs of the Campbell community which are unique here and not directly related to the health and welfare needs of the San Jose area.

3. That a major problem exists because of a lack of communication concerning the needs as well as the agencies available.

4. That the Chamber of Commerce and the City of Campbell should study methods of informing citizens of these needs and services.

5. That the local committee involve people who are in the low income group and who are bilingual.

6. That the Campbell city government take full advantage of the varied services available through the County Health Department.

7. That organizations, such as the PTA, be acquainted with the need for child care centers as now offered by the Burbank center which may not be able to continue in this area.

8. That the collection of junk may pose a health problem and in such cases the County Health Department should take action. But the city could also control this situation both from health and image point of view.

9. That the schools make students more aware of the services available in the community for health and welfare.

10. That lack of planning of overall community services causes overlaps and overgaps to develop.

11. That the addresses and phone numbers be publicized of the Community Council of Santa Clara County; EOC Area Service Center VI in San Tomas, and Santa Clara Health Department on Moorpark and in Los Gatos.

EDUCATION

1. That parents in the community become more involved in the interests and education of their children and that they accept the responsibility for the total education of their children.

2. That community resources in the solution of educational and emotional problems be surveyed and be made available to the schools.

3. That the high school district give consideration to the matter of providing adequate balance in the counseling programs between academic and vocational education.

4. That consideration be given to effective broadening the available programs for exceptional students, both gifted and handicapped, in order that students may benefit completely from their exposure to high school education.

5. That written information from the schools to parents be more concise, appealing in design and impact, and that vocabulary be interpreted in lay terms.

(No action was taken but there also was considerable discussion of possible ways students could take a more positive and effective part in the functions of West Valley College.)

LOCAL GOVERNMENTAL SERVICES

1. That the City of Campbell has done a good job administering city government and providing services; that efforts be continued along these same lines of cooperation with other governmental agencies without loss of local automny.

2. That the City of Campbell, in cooperation with other agencies, adopt a plan of giving monetary rewards for suggestions made by citizens for more efficient government.

3. That greater citizen representation be provided on the County level and that more decentralization be provided in the governmental services.

4. That exchanges of opinion such as provided in the first Congress for Community Progress be continued.

MORE ABOUT

whenever community-wide problems and issues develop is that such things as boundary lines muddy the waters.

For example, the residents who were really worked up over the location of the drive-in theater off Union Ave. and Mc Glincey Lane live within the city limits of San Jose.

But their city council was not interested in fighting their battle for them. City of Campbell was forced to carry on alone for a year.

The drive-in theater is located on the edge of Campbell and apparently is slated to be annexed to this city.

Although the case the City of Campbell presented against the drive-in theater was a strong one, it was necessary to have had the vigorous and enthusiastic support of the entire city to carry the battle onward and upward.

The city limits signs were in the wrong place.

Let's not kid ourselves.

We are all provincial.

That drive-in theater is too far removed from the majority of the City of Campbell residents to get many people from the "westside" to jump on any white horses and crusade against it.

THERE IS ANOTHER case in town where city boundary lines diffuse the effectiveness of an all-out attack of a problem.

We refer, of course, to the needed pedestrian overpass over the San Tomas Expressway near Rincon.

It isn't quite fair to compare the overpass issue with the drive-in debacle. The overpass is not as "provincial" in its scope and its need has definitely been established.

Although the basic cause for the need (the construction of the expressway) is definitely of a countywide nature, let's not kid ourselves again.

If the overpass is ever to come into existence, the City of Campbell must write the script and play the major role in this production.

Unfortunately, some of the strongest supporters for the overpass and for any other worthwhile community-wide project, by a quirk (to use the term advisedly) of a boundary line, live within the city limits of San Jose.

THEY ARE residents of that ignoble Cherry Lane annexation of San Jose. Present legislation prevents such annexation antics. But then San Jose was able to cut right into a Campbell undeveloped residential area.

And now the residents, through no fault of their own, are officially represented in downtown San Jose, a long way from Montezuma Dr. Their problems are right here in Campbell...so they must ask the Campbell City Council to work for them. San Jose would care less.

The people in that area have never tried to conceal that they live in San Jose.

In a recent letter to City Manager Bob Stephens, Mrs. Jeanne L. Kennedy, from Montezuma Dr., emphasized that she also added that they have repeatedly stated that they feel that San Jose should participate in the construction costs of the expressway overpass.

They have also written to the San Jose City Council urging that body to cooperate.

WE FIND NO fault either with Mrs. Kennedy's attitude or of the organization in her neighborhood, the West Rincon Homeowners Association. We commend them for their interest in the community as a whole.

But we also can't help doing some wishful thinking on the subject.

Faced with the civic improvement program of the future, it would be right helpful to have Jeanne Kennedy and her enthusiasm and the homeowners organization in our city...all the way.

access roads and for architectural approval of the existing double-screen drive-in theater.

In preparation for the commission's action next Monday, the city's planning director, Dick Hogan, and other staff personnel, have suggested 18 possible conditions that could be levied in the approval of the use permit.

Many of these conditions have already been agreed to in conference with the theater owners and their representatives.

These conditions include landscaping and screening the area; the annexation of the entire parcel to Campbell rather than just the theater; termination of approval on Aug. 1, 1967, if annexation is not completed; holding areas for cars on area; participation in the possible development of Cristich Lane onto McGlincey; extension of sanitary sewer lines; no loud speakers; city control of signs; utilities underground; no stacking of cars on the streets and reimbursement to the city for payment of all litigation costs.

The action by the Planning Commission on the use permit will be final unless the decision is appealed to the City Council by either proponents or opponents of the theater.

The Alice Ave. delegation was again present at the meeting Monday night. City Manager Bob Stephens explained the various alternatives. One included the formation of an improvement district by Alice Ave. residents to buy the property.

In another action, the council directed Wren to determine whether the electrolier was needed, as originally called for in the plans for the Winchester-Medical Center.

Dr. Jack Hughes, one of the owners of the center, pointed out that the building had been completed for a year and he had been informed just recently that the electrolier had to be installed. He felt it was unnecessary and that his architect had said that a city official had approved its elimination some time ago. However, the architect was vague as to what official was involved. Although sympathetic to the center's problem, it was suggested that the architect should furnish the council with more specifics.

In other actions, the council approved six ordinances including those involving the control of bees and cats and a modification of the present house-moving ordinance.

City Council

They argued that the proposed school district use was less hazardous than that of the hardware store that had operated for so many years in the same location. They maintained that it was not a change in occupancy but a change in tenants only, for the Nelson brothers plan to lease the building to the district for a three year period.

They also maintained the proposed offices were allowed in the same zone as a hardware store and that the building was constructed long before any fire zones had been established in the city and the non-conforming use should thus continue.

They also emphasized that the fire department was the only city department that had not given its approval for the use and felt that the fire officials were acting in an arbitrary and capricious manner in this instance.

Fire Chief George Maxwell and Fire Marshal Gene Bordon, in definding their position, pointed out that the building was unprotected and that it met none of the requirements for the fire codes in effect in the city.

They also explained in answer to the question of why they had not acted when the Nelsons were in business, that it was their policy not to move on such matters until a firm went out of business.

Fire Chief Maxwell also emphasized that he felt it was his duty to bring such matters to the attention of the City Council for the council's policy would have a great bearing on other similar cases that will arise in the future.

Wallace Byron, city building official, also explained his department's position in the matter. He said that the structure had not been thoroughly inspected for the purpose of condemnation. He added also that "to bring it up to code" would mean that the building would almost have to be rebuilt.

All the council members in the discussion period recognized that the question had far-reaching significance.

COUNCILMEN SPEAK

Rose maintained that the city's policy has been weak in the past and that without a definite plan for development, removing a building and leaving a vacant lot served no purpose.

"Vacant lots mean nothing and create a hardship on the property owner," Rose argued, "especially when there has been no physical improvement by the city."

Doetsch agreed with Rose and added that a three-year period as requested by the school district was not too long a time to wait for developments based on past experience on the street.

Hyde said that it boiled down to a question of policy and precedent and that the city must be aware of the effect on the other substandard buildings in the area that could be affected by any decision by the council.

Smeed insisted that the fire chief's recommendation should be followed and any policy other than to force the school district to bring the building up to code would be inconsistent.

He said that the city had insisted in the past that buildings should be torn down and he had faith in potential investors who will develop the downtown area once the substandard buildings are removed.

City Attorney Joe Bonacina suggested that in an action the city might take in approving the use, it should be specified that the city would be held harmless. He said he wanted the city and the fire department to be protected.

During the discussion on Rose's motion, Hyde indicated that he felt that three years was too long a time to allow the temporary use, inasmuch as the time table calls for the improving of Campbell Ave. before that time.

However, he did not offer an amendment to the motion and went along with Smeed in opposition.

No one hazarded a guess as to how the absent Councilman Rogers would have voted. But on March 13, the answer should be forthcoming.

Our Town

It's a sorry state of affairs when the Campbell Artists' Guild, which is comprised of residents of this city, have to go outside our town to find a place to meet which doesn't charge them rent. At the present they are meeting at the American Savings and Loan Association, 1285 Lincoln Ave., San Jose. They have a good set-up there, but it's too far from home. Isn't there a place in town they could use? The members are toying with the idea of changing the name of the club, since they can't meet here. Garden club joins schools in observance of Arbor Day

Two schools in the Moreland School District will be presented young oak trees by Campbell Garden Club in conjunction with their Arbor Day observances on Tuesday, March 7. Bucknall School and Payne School will be the recipients of the little trees.

Douglas Reinecke, principal at Bucknall School, reports they will plant a small grove of trees on the school property to be used for nature study, biology and outdoor classes in general.

The oak was chosen by the Garden Club because the theme for the club year is "Giant oaks from little acorns grow" and also to accent the fact that the deed to the first Moreland School property stated that the land was by "a giant oak." Moreland is the oldest known public rural school district in the state, established in 1851.

Mrs. John Jackson, conservation chairman for the Garden Club, will be program chairman of the regular meeting of the club to be held at the Fireside room of the Congregational Church of Campbell on Wednesday, March 8 at 1p.m. Lloyd Case will be the guest speaker.

The couple will honeymoon in Acapulco, Mexico in March.

MR. AND MRS. JACK GORDON FERGUSON

Christine Sue Murphy and Jack Gordon Ferguson were united in marriage at a beautiful double ring ceremony at the First Methodist Church of Campbell recently. Rev. William H. Gould was the officiating clergyman.

The attractive brunette bride chose a satin gown with overskirt of chantilly lace. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion was secured by a lace crown embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds surrounding a white orchid.

Miss Ruth Anne Bergen was the honor attendant, and bridesmaids were the Misses Mary Louise Ring, Ingrid Niehaus and Virginia Schlosser.

Roger Wintle, close friend of the bridegroom, served as the best man and ushering duties were performed by Joseph Castro, Robert Hewitt, John Shufford, Larry Hallen, Stephen Young and Stephen Murphy. Councilman Ed Rogers reports on Latin America

EDITOR'S NOTE: Councilman Ed Rogers, a professor of political science at San Jose State, is on sabbatical leave this semester and is on a five-week tour of Latin America.

This is the second letter received from Dr. Rogers describing some of the highlights of his trip:

Dear George:

Since my last letter to you, Madeleine and I have traveled through Peru, Chile and Argentina. Lima, Peru has the most modern airport we have seen yet in South America. Since we had to pay a $15 airport tax there we have a lasting bond there. Lima is a city of two faces, the very modern on the one hand and the colonial on the other.

The city was laid out by Francisco Pizzaro, the Spanish conqueror of Peru, in 1535. We viewed his remains (in a glass coffin) in the main cathedral facing the Plaza de la Armas.

Pizzaro was assassinated about three years after he laid out the city and the sword thrust can still be traced in his skeletal remains. It gives one an odd feeling to gaze upon the wired-up skeleton of this cruel, powerful, yet capable man who in one stroke shattered the far-flung Inca Empire and murdered its last ruler.

We drove through the city and were able to contrast the old, poverty-ridden section near the Rimac River to the bright, well kept residential areas of the wealthy nearer the ocean.

There doesn't seem to be much middle ground between the two, although we did see some moderate priced apartments under construction and apparently designed for the working classes. There is much still to be done in this city.

We took an early morning flight to the famous "Lost City of the Andes", Machu Picchu, near Cuzco. Actually we stayed at Cuzco, then took a cog-wheeled train to Machu Picchu.

The flight, I might add, was made in a DC-4 (World War II vintage) piston-engine, unpressurized plane. We climbed from sea-level to 20,000 ft. and then flew through towering Andean Peaks. We were relieved in our breathing by taking oxygen by mouth. The descent into Cuzco was sudden and sharp to an altitude of 11,400 ft.

Cuzco was the capital of the Inca Empire, an empire which stretched south into what is now Bolivia and Chile and north into Ecuador and Colombia. Some date the Inca settlement at Cuzco as far back as 3000 B.C. By the time Pizzaro arrived in 1532 it was a rich city with broad plazas, splendid palaces and magnificent temples. Pizzaro looted the city and enslaved the Indians. The Spanish tore down many of the structures and built their own on Inca foundations.

The Inca walls and foundations have withstood wars, fires and earth-quakes, those built by the Spanish have fallen.

The train to Machu Picchu is cog-wheel, as noted, and uses several switchbacks to cover the 75-mile way through the Andes into an almost inaccessible area.

The well-preserved city is located on an almost vertical mountain side. The Spaniards never found this city and apparently after the conquest at Cuzco the inhabitants died or went elsewhere. What happened to the inhabitants is still a mystery to this very day. What is known is that the city was discovered by Professor Hiram Bingham, an American, in 1911.

Skeleton remains, mainly of women and children, led Bingham to believe that this city was used as a refuge for women and children after the pillaging of Cuzco. Others feel that its main role was in rites of worship to the Sun God. Perhaps there are elements of truth in both.

From Lima we flew to Santiago, Chile. Chile is a long, string-bean like country, 2600 miles long and 100 miles at the widest. The northern third is made up mainly by the Atacama Desert. It is said that this copper-rich desert is so dry that even weeds will not grow there. After a superficial look I am quite ready to believe this statement. The southern third of the country is forested and wet and sparcely populated. The middle third, the Vale of Chile, is the most important part. The bulk of the people, the best land, the majority of the industry and the best climate are all found here.

Santiago is a modern, clean, progressive city with much hustle and drive. In fact it seems more like a north American city. Its beautifully landscaped main street, the Avenida Bernardo O'Higgins was named for an Irishman. O'Higgins led the victorious colonial armies against Spain in Chile's independence movement and he later became the first president of the nation.

He is, in fact, the George Washington of Chile. The lovely residential areas of El Golfo (named after the nearby golf club) and Los Leones reminded us so much of California's homes.

In fact the climate the fruits and vegetables, plus the homes are all similar to those in California. There are no Indians to speak of here in Chile. I was told that they were killed off in the many Indian wars following colonization. Only 1% of the population is Indian I was told. This contrasts to 70% in Ecuador and Peru. There is no grinding poverty here either. At least not of the type we saw in Lima.

We later drove out to Vina del Mar, Chile's swank beach resort and also to Valparaiso, the main port of central Chile. We were properly impressed by both and by the little interior towns which gave the impression of cleanliness, alertness and progress.

The outstanding characteristic of Argentina is its wide fertile plain called the Pampa. Here is where the Argentines produce the beef for which they are famous. Madeleine and I can attest to the quality and size of the serving. We went to one of their more popular restaurants and, of course, ordered steak. Both steaks filled the plates (nothing else in the plate) and each was 2 1/2 inches thick and both were tasty and tender. I have never seen anything like this before. Just as remarkable was the price. Our joint dinner, steak, wine, coffee, etc., cost about seven American dollars!

Buenos Aires is a huge city, about five million people and a beautiful one too. The city has innumerable parks and broad tree-lined avenues. In fact, the city looks very much like Paris, sidewalk cafes and all. We have covered it fairly well and are very much impressed by the city and its people. Like Santiago there seems to be no great poverty. Instead the people are quite well dressed, busy and incidentally, very courteous. Both Santiago and Buenos Aires are places that I would like to return to and spend more time in.

Until the next time, George, I remain
As ever,
Ed Rogers

ON CAPITOL HILL

with "Charlie" Gubser

The report of the Special Committee to investigate the status of Adam Clayton Powell has settled some serious questions but has raised another which involves the United States Department of Justice. The committee has turned its information over to the Department which will decide whether it will prosecute Mr. Powell for irregularities in the handling of his office payroll.

Admittedly, there are serious constitutional questions involved regarding the right of Congress to deny Mr. Powell his seat. The wrong doings, upon which many justify denying Mr. Powell his seat, were committed prior to Nov. 8 when the 90th Congress did not even exist. There is serious doubt in many persons' minds that when the new Congress was organized it had the right to exercise ex post facto judgment on the action taken by voters in a sovereign congressional district last year. On these grounds, much as we might consider the seating of Mr. Powell to be a reflection upon honest government, the recommendation of the committee to seat him can be defended. There is also justification for a censure of Mr. Powell and requiring him to pay back funds which he presumably collected for services which were not rendered by his wife.

The testimony of Mrs. Powell, given under oath and which has not been refuted as of this writing, is that she did no work while receiving a salary of almost $2000 per month. Nineteen checks were made out to her, were not endorsed by her, and presumably were deposited in Mr. Powell's account.

If this is true and the Justice Department does not proceed with a prosecution of Mr. Powell regardless of whether he pays the amount back or not, it most certainly will be applying dual standards of justice.

In 1953 Representative Ernest K. Bramblett of California was indicted on eighteen counts of false statements in connection with alleged payroll "kick backs" from an employee in his office. He was convicted, fined $5000, and given a suspended jail sentence.

In 1949 Representative J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey was sentenced to federal prison on charges of padding his payroll and receiving salary "kick backs". He served almost a year before being paroled.

In 1951 Representative Walter E. Brehm of Ohio was given a suspended jail sentence and fined $5000 on five counts of accepting campaign contributions from his office clerks.

None of these men were allowed the privilege of repaying the money in exchange for absolution.

Assuming Mrs. Powell's testimony and all it implies is correct, there is little, if any, difference between what Powell did and what sent Thomas to jail and convicted Bramblett and Brehm. Unless the Justice Department moves to prosecute him as it did the others, then it is clearly employing a dual standard of justice --one for men like Bramblett, Thomas and Brehm, and another for Adam Clayton Powell.

Blackford High Y-Teens have busy schedule

The girls at Blackford High School who have joined the Y-Teens are finding a great deal of satisfaction in the work they are doing. They have sold UNICEF Christmas cards, sung carols at local hospitals during the Christmas season and learned about self-improvement.

The project they have found the most gratifying is their work in association with Friends Outside. On the first Saturday of each month, the girls get together with members of other service clubs and twenty to sixty underprivileged children for three hours of recreation. Under normal circumstances, these children would not experience the fun and activities they receive through this group.

The upcoming calendar of events includes a candy sale March 1 through March 9, the making of stuffed animals for Children's Shelter and participating in Y-Teen during Easter vacation. Other officers of Blackford Y-Teens are Ann Melick, social chairman; Lynne Sheitzer, publicity; and Barbara Goodwin, projects chairman.

Nursery schools plan open house

March 5 through 12 has been proclaimed "Nursery Education Week" by Ralph Doetsch, mayor of Campbell. The Campbell Parents Nursery School, 528 N. Harrison will open its doors on Wednesday, March 8 from 9:30 to 11 a.m., and 1 to 2:30 p.m., and Thursday, March 9 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Campbell Methodist Parents Pre-School, 1675 Winchester Blvd. will hold open house Wednesday, March 8 from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

These nursery schools have been established for the benefit of pre-school children age 3 to 5. They offer a broad program of activity to develop the childs' relationships with other children as well as those with adults other than his own parents. The parents also have the opportunity to gain a better understanding of their children by observing many children of the same age.

Both schools welcome visitors. Further information is available through Mrs. Edward Cox, 292-1685, for Campbell Parents Nursery School or Barbara Gregory, 252-2858, for Campbell Methodist Nursery School.

Hospital tours for children

Special informational tours of hospital facilities for area preschoolers and children in the lower elementary grades are available at Community Hospital of Los Gatos-Saratoga.

The tours include a visit to all departments of the 162-bed general hospital at 815 Pollard Rd., Los Gatos, including the admitting office, laboratories, obstetrics, (with a look at the nursery), pediatrics and an inspection of an unoccupied patient's room. The visit concludes with a special showing of the movie, "A Place to Get Well".

The tours, designed to dispel basic hospital fears among children, are offered as part of the hospital's community services program.

Arrangements for the special tours may be made by calling Community Hospital at 378-6131.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA

Gamma Omega chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma will meet March 2 in the Home Economics Building of San Jose State College.

The program for the evening will be an address by Mrs. Jane Wolfe who worked in the Vista Program in Kentucky. She will illustrate her talk with slides. All members are invited to attend.

Houge school slates science fair March 15

Honor roll students for the second reporting period for Houge Intermediate School totaled 74.

Mrs. LaMoyne Troedson, principal, is encouraging the students to enter into fields other than the regular curriculum. There will be a Science Fair on March 15, 16 and 17, at which time ribbons and trophies will be awarded for the most outstanding projects. All students are then inspired to enter their projects in the Santa Clara Valley Science Fair in April.

Other after school activities which have proven successful are boys cooking, girls' shop class, music appreciation, and the electronics class.

Cancer Society needs more volunteers from Campbell area

"More volunteers are greatly needed in the Campbell area to aid the American Cancer Society in its program", according to Dr. Gene T. Yore, Santa Clara County branch president of the American Cancer Society.

"Unfortunately most people think of the American Cancer Society only in terms of its April door-to-door crusade. The annual crusade is necessary to raise funds to support our total program of service, education and research which goes on all year round", Dr. Yore explained.

The purpose of the service program is to aid cancer patients and their families. This is done by driving patients to and from treatment centers, delivering dressings and other equipment to patients.

The education program has become more and more important each year in saving lives by spreading knowledge of cancer to the public. This year 500 people in Santa Clara County will die needlessly because they do not know the warning signs of cancer, and will not go to a doctor in time. They will have cancers which research has found can be controlled and/or cured, if they are found in time.

In spite of the fact that some cancers can now be cured, either by chemotherapy, radiation or surgery, the researchers continue toward the ultimate goal of the American Cancer Society, complete elimination of all cancers. To achieve this goal approximately 1/2 million dollars is now being used in Santa Clara County in cancer research and equipment.

Volunteers are needed to work with the service, education, public information and fund raising committees in Campbell. Anyone wishing to aid this program for the Campbell area is asked to call the Santa Clara County Branch of the American Cancer Society at 297-0527.

Social Security office aids in medicare claims

The Social Security Administration is prepared to assist any Medicare beneficiary in the preparation of his initial claim to recover doctor bills from the California Physicians Service. This is the information furnished by John J. Cassidy, district manager of the San Jose Office.

According to Cassidy, the number of telephone calls coming to his office from retired people indicates a lack of understanding of the manner in which recovery is made.

As a general rule, the doctor bills the patient for his services. The patient, after paying the bill, sends the receipted bill to the California Physicians Service in San Francisco for reimbursement. In addition to the receipted doctor's bill, there is a regular claims form that must accompany the bill. This application can either be secured from the doctor's office (who receives his supply from the California Physicians Service) or he may contact the Social Security Office.

You can deduct part of vehicle fees as taxes

How much of your vehicle fees for 1966 are deductible for last year's income tax purposes in the federal and state returns you are preparing to file by April 15?

According to the Department of Motor Vehicles, passenger car owners with regular registrations can determine the deductible amount simply by subtracting $9 from the total paid last year on each car owned. See the amount on your 1966 DMV registration card. (The new 1967 registration cards now being issued do not contain the information you need for itemized 1966 tax records.)

Another large group is composed of station wagon owners who may wagon owners who may subtract $10 from their total payments, and in most cases may claim the remainder as deductible.

The two subtracted amounts are flat annual registration fees imposed under Vehicle Code provisions. The tax-deductible balance is a two per cent "in lieu" tax on the value of the vehicle, collected by the state under Revenue and Taxation Code statutes for distribution to cities and counties. It is a substitute property value tax, and therefore is deductible.

Less simple cases may need to consult local offices of the Internal Revenue Service or Department of Motor Vehicles before April 15 for more details.

SERVICE AND INITIATIVE--The Campbell Press, recently presented annual awards for achievements made by the carriers of your newspaper. For seven years of fine service to his customers, Jim Chamberlin, a senior at Campbell High School, president of the Student Body, and member of the Speech and Debate Team, was awarded a new pen. Carrier Darrell McCarty, at right, holding trophy, received the trophy award for second highest place in the yearly Subscription Contest, while Tom Hale proudly shows his first place trophy to Sam LoBue, a friend (and possible candidate for a newspaper route?). The boys were feasted and honored at a recent carrier's luncheon at the Sveden House Smorgasbord, along with the entire staff of Campbell Press carriers.

Campbell Crier

by DAVE TURNER

For the first time in Campbell High's history, the biggest social event of the year will be the Senior Ball, a dinner dance. This Friday night some 135 couples will gather at Mariani's in Sunnyvale for "Memoirs Cherie". A prime rib dinner will open the evening and be followed by dancing 'till midnight to the music of the Johnny Vaughn Orchestra.

While freshmen, sophomores, and juniors were busily preparing their schedules for next year, the Class of '71 was getting its first look at Campbell. Last week several hundred eighth graders from Castro Junior High and Campbell Elementary visited our campus. In addition to hearing about extra-cirricular activities, the students were given a guided tour of the campus and invited to buy a mid-day snack at Bucs' Cove.

Four senior students were selected recently to represent Campbell High and compete for individual scholarships in the Bank of America's annual scholarship competition. Chosen in general areas of study, the students will be rated on the basis of grade point average, extra-curricular activities, and results of an interview on April 13.

A first place finish at this zone interview means a $150 scholarship and a trip to San Francisco to compete for a $1000 scholarship. Selected by their teachers for their ability in their respective general categories were: Charlene Lawrence, vocational arts; George Taniguchi, fine arts; Richard Phillips, science and math; and Dave Turner, liberal arts.

The 1966-67 basketball season closed on a sour note last Friday night, as both squads dropped contests to the Longhorns from Leigh. The loss gave Coach Mike Sweeney's Soph-Frosh team a 10-4 season record and a third place league finish.

A fourth quarter spree by five graduating seniors brought Campbell from 11 points down to only two behind with two minutes remaining in the varsity game, but a couple of bad bounces and Leigh's overpowering height snatched the game from the clutches of the hungry Bucs, leaving them winless for the season.

The real game of the season, however, the one the Buc varsity has primed for all year, will be staged tonight at 7:30 in the Campbell gym, when the varsity meets the faculty for the undisputed campus championship. Leading the faculty in the fracas will be Marvelous Marcos, Slippery Sampson, Swindler Sweeney, Ramshackle Robinson, and Awesome Augenstein.

Paper drive

Is your garage full of papers? The Campbell Methodist Parents Preschool is having a fund raising paper drive on March 4 to help pay for their playground improvements. Please bring your papers to the bin at the rear of the First Methodist Church of Campbell at 1675 Winchester Boulevard (between Latimer and Hamilton) on Saturday morning, March 4.

If this is impossible, and you live in the area bounded by Highway 17, Sunnyoaks, Westmont, Quito, Saratoga, and Payne you may call 379-6978 or 264-9186 before 9 p.m. Thursday March 2 and have your papers picked up.

Camden Chatter

by JAN LOWDEN

Come one, come all to the best basketball game of the season. This coming Friday the Camden's men faculty will challenge the great KLIV Prunes. The Prunes currently hold a 2 lost 5 won record. Game time is 8:00 in the Camden gym.

The male members of the faculty will take on the Prunes while the female members of the faculty take over cheerleaders, and rally girls. An evening of enjoyment is in store. Price for this gala affair is only $1. You can pay at the door.

BREAKFAST IS A SUCCESS:

Camden's G.A.A. and Block C held a pancake breakfast last Sunday in the school cafeteria. Members of both organizations sold tickets and served the fine meal. Over $200 was made from the feast.

This was one of the big fund raising events for both clubs.

SENIORS ARE CHOSEN:

Seniors chosen for the month of March are no other than Camden's Vikki Bare and Tim Gardenar. Vikki is currently a varsity cheerleader and active in other school activities. Tim was a council member and a senior officer.

Both of these students have worked hard to better the senior class and the school. They will be honored at a Kiwanis luncheon sometime in March.

COUGARS DUMPED:

Camden Cougars went down to defeat at the hands of the Del Mar Dons last Friday night. After once beating the Dons the Cougars fell hard with the score 76-50. This loss put the Cougars in third place in the League. With Del Mar and Leigh, first and second.

G.A.A. OFF TO A GOOD START:

Camden's girls sports got off to a good start as they upset Saratoga last Thursday in both volleyball and basketball. Basketball was a clean sweep as Camden took four out of four games. Volleyball was not so lucky as Saratoga took two of the eight matches.

Camden's captains in volleyball were: Barb Culcasi, Gayle Towner, Cathy Bradford, and Kathy Gallaway.

FINAL LITTLE LEAGUE SIGN-UP

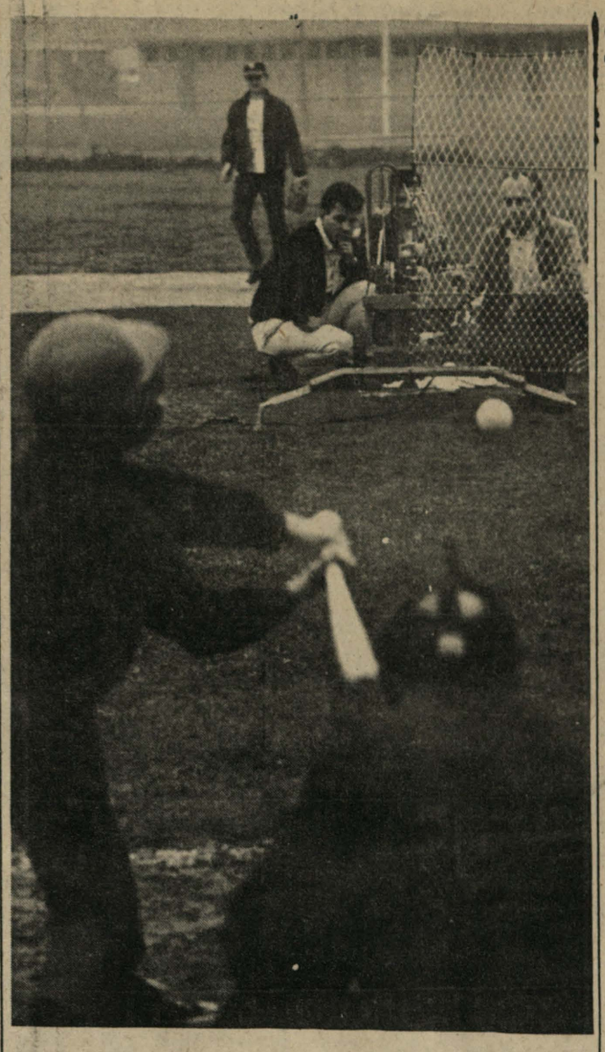
Final Campbell Little League sign-up days will be held Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, it was announced this week. Week day hours will be between 7 and 9 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sign-ups will be at the Rosemary School Little League diamond.

Boys may sign-up for Pony League March 8

The Campbell-Moreland Pony League invites all interested boys to register for the 1967 Pony League season at Castro Jr. High on March 8, between 7 and 9 p.m.

Campbell - Moreland includes the town of Campbell plus the area generally bounded on the south by Wedgewood Ave., Pollard and Sobey Rds.; on the west by Titus Ave. and Saratoga Creek; to the north by Doyle Rd., Williams Rd. and a short section of Payne Ave.; on the east by short runs of Winchester Blvd. and Highway 17.

Any boy born between August 1, 1952 and July 31, 1954 inclusive, is eligible to play Pony League baseball. Boys must bring their birth certificate. Castro Jr. High is located off Campbell Ave. between Fallbrook Ave. and Student Lane.



OVER THE FENCE--A Moreland Little Leaguer tries out his batting ability with the latest invention, the Ponza Pitching Machine. Larry Ponza of Santa Cruz, (right) is shown operating his machine. It pitches accurately at the right speed and elevation for a complete age range up to adult batters. Campbell Little League also tried the pitching machine at their try-outs last Saturday. Jack Lopes of District 44, Little League, says it has cut down "try-out" time by a full day.

BLACKFORD PRESENTS "LI'L ABNER"--Blackford High School's cafetorium will be transformed into Dogpatch, U.S.A. on March 2, 3 and 4, as the students bring to life Al Capp's immortal characters with the presentation of Li'l Abner. Taking leading roles in the production are Marsha Sims as Daisy Mae and John Whitten as Li'l Abner.

Seniors compete for bank awards

Four Blackford seniors have been selected to represent their school in the 1967 Bank of America Acheivement Awards program.

Selected by faculty members, the top winners will receive trophies and have the opportunity to compete for cash awards ranging up to $1000.

The trophy winners and the study fields in which they were chosen are:

Bruce Thompson, science and mathematics; Celia Andro. fine arts; Janice Stockard, liberal arts; and Paula Baird, vocational arts.

The top four winners in the zone event will advance to the highest phase of the competition--the area finals--where they will contend for cash awards ranging from $150 to $1000.

Second and third place winners in each study field at the zone event will receive $50 and $25 awards, respectively.

There are only two ways to fly a kite:

Get it up. And do it safely.

The 1967 edition of Pacific Gas and Electric Company's Kite Fun Book gets this message over to young kite flyers with the aid of cartoon characters Secret Squirrel and Morocco Mole.

Like its predecessors, the new booklet spells out the rules for safe kite-flying -- and kite-building, too -- in a manner that's both educational and entertaining.

The full-color booklet is available free at all PG&E offices. Copies may be obtained in quantity by school or youth groups.

These safety rules are emphasized in the booklet:

1. Don't cross streets or highways while flying kites.
2. Don't fly a kite with metal in the frame.
3. Don't use tinsel string, wire or any twine with metal in it.
4. Don't fly a kite near electric power lines.
5. Don't fly a kite near TV or radio aerials.
6. Don't pull on the string or climb a power pole to loosen a snagged kite.
7. Don't touch fallen electric wires.
8. Don't fly a kite in the rain.

UN radio news agency chief speaks at WV College March 7

Alexander Gabriel, chief of the United Nations Bureau of the Trans-radio News Agency, will be the principal speaker at an International Affairs Forum at West Valley College auditorium on Tuesday, March 7 at 8 p.m. The forum is being sponsored as a part of the College's Community Services Program.

His provocative subject will be: "The Peace and the Power Puzzle."

Gabriel, considered the dean of United Nations correspondents, is described as "a human Telestar who scans the world...a walking encyclopedia...a witty, colorful and unique commentator on the international scene."

He came to his present post after pioneering such news features as "Confidentially Yours," "The Atomic Age This Week," "News Preview" and "Between the Lines." On the eve of World War II, he served as political counselor to the United States Office of War information and was with the Army Air Force during the war.

In regard to his subject for discussion here, he says:

"We are the most powerful nation in the world, a military colossus, an economic giant, balancing the world on our shoulders, literally like an Atlas.

"But the old balances are slipping, nuclear weapons are spreading, and our allies are wavering. The threat of a world nuclear war has given way to perhaps bigger threats of the small wars, demanding new strategies, new decisions, certainly new thinking.

"There is Vietnam now, and more Vietnams ahead, and a new kind of peace-keeping problem. Who shall keep this new kind of peace?--the United Nations?--the United States? We are strong, the UN is militarily weak but not without a strength of its own. Which should it be?"
